Wesley Chapel High School

Scholarship:

Being a good student means completing assigned work on time and being willing to mentor and help my peers. As a pack leader, I tutor underclassmen and provide them with the tools that have helped me get to where I am today. Success in the classroom has always been something I have been willing to work hard for. I believe that with hard work, you can do anything you set your mind to.

Leadership:

Upholding the quality of leadership is to be a positive role model and aid others. I demonstrate leadership by holding the title and position of captain of the girls varsity soccer team—which led to being named the Conference Defensive Player of the Year in 2020. Additionally, I am the current yearbook editor-in-chief, where I dedicate my time and efforts in capturing memories for all students at Wesley Chapel High School.

Service:

Service builds character and allows one to be more aware of their surroundings. Service provides opportunities to experience life through another point of view. While providing service, a huge goal of mine is to inspire those I am helping. I dedicate a lot of my time working with younger students by tutoring, motivating, and driving them to greater achievements. Knowledge and success lead directly to growth in and out of the classroom.

Citizenship:

Over the last four years of high school, I have been an active journalism member, editor-in-chief, a member of National Honor Society, and an active Positive Coaching Alliance member. Through my participation in all extracurricular activities and philanthropy, I have been able to share my knowledge and experience to those around me. A key factor to my contributions to the community and the classroom starts and ends with providing service to others.
